

MORNING APPEAL

THURSDAY.....AUGUST 1

It was announced a few days ago that the War Department was considering a proposition for secretly making recruits of the army by a form of vaccination known only to the surgeons, for the purpose of detecting deserters. This is a mistake in one important particular. The plan has been in practice nearly a year, and has not proved a success. The regulations provide for the vaccination of all recruits. They are all vaccinated on the outside of the left leg, about two inches below the knee. That the scheme has not been a success is due to the fact that less than 40 per cent. of the vaccinations leave permanent scars, and those who are thus marked have ways of destroying it so as to prevent detection. Under the old branding system the objectionable mark was obliterated by tattooing and burning, and the methods have been resorted to to destroy the vaccination mark. Since this scheme was put into effect it is not known that a single deserter has been detected by means of the scar on his leg.

Maine is a prohibition State, yet it is recorded by her own papers that on the Fourth of July the streets of Bangor and Portland literally swarmed with drunken men. A few days before, the police confiscated all the liquor they could find, and it was no small quantity; yet on the Fourth and the day before, the tide of inebriety rose higher than ever before known in the history of either city. The station-houses became so full of "drunks" that they absolutely overflowed and towards the last the police ceased to make arrests because there was no place to put the prisoners. It is because of such demonstrations as these that the prohibitory laws do not prevent the sale of liquors that the more recent voting upon the question has been adverse to it.

The commander of the revenue cutter Rush has broken the ice on the Behring Sea question, and has taken a British vessel as a prize. The whole matter will now be put in issue between the American and the British Governments, and we may expect a speedy solution of the difficulty. For it is to the interest of both parties to the controversy to hasten it to judgment. There is nothing to be gained by either by delay. The interests of the shipmasters and fishers demand that they shall not be kept waiting for a solution of the difficulty. As for war between America and England because of the Behring Sea matter we do not give it a thought; it is altogether improbable.

Commander Dennis W. Mullan, of the navy, reached his home in Annapolis Sunday. He said, in speaking of affairs at Samoa, that he had done simply his duty as an officer of the navy, and if his acts met the approval of the proper naval authorities and of the people whose servant he was, he was satisfied. As to his misunderstanding with Admiral Kimberly, he said: "I have not any misunderstanding with the officer, and as his junior I cannot be interviewed concerning any of his official acts." He expects to remain at home in Annapolis until Fall, when he will be joined by his family, now in San Francisco.

It is said that Thomas Fortune, of St. Louis, formerly a railroad detective, will soon be appointed Chief of the Treasury Secret Service. He was at first opposed by Powderly and the labor organizations on account of his work during the St. Louis railroad strikes, but Powderly has recently written to the Secretary of the Treasury withdrawing all opposition and his appointment is daily expected.

The Enterprise still keeps begging the Gazette to tell who the "political manipulators are who have brought the State to the verge of bankruptcy." Bet you eight dollars, Mr. Enterprise, the Gazette won't tell.
